Adult Education Said Needed to Develop Citizenship for Democracy

BALLOTING ON MANY POINTS IS EXPECTED

E. A. Corbett, Director Of Canadian Association, Prepares Paper

EDMONTON, June 23.—The Canadian Association for Adult Education, through the verbal extension of schooling to all who desire it, hopes to assist in developing "a vigor of intellect, a maturity of thought sufficient to ensure a citizenship competent to meet the inseparable demands of a democracy."

DECIDE BY BALLOT

"If our democratic institutions are to endure, citizens will continue to be called upon to decide by ballot on economic, financial and political issues. We are convinced that the education and discipline of the elementary, secondary and even high school is not sufficient for this responsibility."

"There was general agreement in Canada with regard to the sound working philosophy of adult education. But there also were three or four schools of thought with regard to the method to be used in the application of the philosophy to existing conditions." Prof. Corbett continued.

RUGGED INDIVIDUALISTS

In Western Canada, "where interest in adult education is stronger than anywhere else, with the exception of Nova Scotia," adult education has been "almost entirely cultural in its approach." Western farmers, living at great distances from each other, "are of a rugged individualism; they do not co-operate readily."

"Everyone who spends any time in Western Canada is amazed at the extraordinary number and variety of voluntary cultural activities. The provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia almost every school district belongs to a sectional musical festival. There are over 30 city and county musical festivals in Alberta alone."

HERMAN KEEPS ORIGINAL LABEL SOCIAL CREDIT

MELVILLE, Sask., June 23.—Statement by George H. Williams, Saskatchewan Conservative Commonwealth Federation leader Monday that J. F. Herman, Social Credit M.L.A., chief for Melville in the provincial legislature had joined the C.C.F., was denied Wednesday by L. C. Egan, president of the Melville constituency Social Credit association.

Mr. Egan said Mr. Herman received his nomination at a Social Credit convention, ran in the election on the Social Credit ticket and was a Social Credit member.

He stated the Social Credit executive will meet here within a few days and Mr. Herman will receive instructions from that body regarding his action in the legislature.

10,000 Followers
Of Townsend Say
They Won't Give Up
British Union Press
LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Ten thousand Townsend followers Monday heard a denunciation of those who say they "deserve to be dead," and a prediction that they will have another 2,000,000 adherents by July 1.

The delegates, attending the third Townsend national convention, were addressed by Capt. R. Hand, of the Townsend Washington legislative committee.

"Consequently speaking," Capt. Hand said, "we should start on July 1 with at least two million willing workers."

"They say," he continued, "that the Townsend plan is dead. But it's the most amazing corpse and one ever tried to bury. They who say the Townsend movement is dead, are only whistling as they pass their own graves."

Property Title Of
Selassie Guarded
LONDON, June 23.—In the strange comedy of a cancelled division, the House of Commons Wednesday first, reading to a private bill to safeguard the title of Haile Selassie to his property within the jurisdiction of the courts of the United Kingdom.

The bill, if Great Britain gives De Jure recognition to the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, would prevent the Italian government securing possession of £10,000,000,000 due Haile Selassie by a British company for wireless services.

Rather Not Organizers List Varied Opinions On Party Policy

Debate On Conservative Platform To Have Important Place On Agenda At Convention in July.

By R. K. CARNEGIE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 23.—The rank and file of the Conservative party have been asked to send to the National Convention committee suggestions for the party platform which will be decided at the three-day gathering beginning July 15. Not only the big men in the organization but humble party workers in all parts of the Dominion have responded to the call, the committee reports.

The question that is disturbing Conservative men and women is whether the junior party, which since Confederation has been regarded as a right party, should ever to the left, there will be plenty of delegates wanting the party to stay " Tory" and many others hoping when the party platform is finally constructed it will show decidedly right-wing.

"Rats of suggestions are coming in," said J. R. MacNicol, Toronto member of parliament and energetic joint chairman of the committee. Maurice Dupre, Quebec lawyer and solicitor-general in the Bennett government, and Mr. MacNicol are the chairmen on whose shoulders falls much of the work of organizing the convention.

The jovial face of Mr. MacNicol lights up as the pile of suggestions grows. "We have adopted a high democratic procedure to get the view of the rank and file," he said.

"All suggestions will be listed and correlated so they can be turned over in the final convention. The resolutions committee of 1937 is named the first day of the convention. Ontario and Quebec each will have 36 persons on the committee and the balance, 48, will represent the remainder of Canada. The two central provinces will have less than half the representation. The more suggestions come in the better we shall be pleased."

Many political observers consider the decisions of the convention in regard to party policy will be quite as important to the Conservative chances of carrying the coast as will the selection of a leader.

DIRECTION AN ISSUE
Critics of the Mackenzie King government have claimed it is slipping most of the road on which the Conservative party is accustomed to travel, and there isn't enough room on the right side for one out-and-out Tory party to get ahead.

It is a frequent contention there will be wide differences of opinion among the convention delegates on the question of voting to the left or right. The radio speeches of R. H. B. Bennett before the last Dominion election were generally regarded as pointing somewhat to the left and many of the radically-minded Conservatives will be well pleased if the convention decided to go even further in that direction.

It would be an unusual situation to find the Conservative party more radical than the Liberal government. Ever since Confederation the Liberals have been regarded as the more radical. Before the turn of the century when it was considered a sign of weakness for a fighting party man to call the opposition party by its duly adopted name, Liberals were often dubbed "Rads." Even in Laurier's time his supporters were referred to as "reformers" in the back conversations more often than as Liberals.

While Conservative governments at times have done things which might be considered radical, it is contended the people of Canada regard the party as conservative and many in regard to radicalism and even from the back conversations and many from the urban centers, who have been taught from their cradles that a Conservative party should be conservative, will want to keep it that way. Every constituency of the 48 in Canada will have delegates, all of whom will likely have pretty decided views on the matter.

CORRECTION A NECESSITY
Conservatives have stood for state direction while the Liberals have emphasized the rights of the individual. When Mr. Bennett, then prime minister, sought to institute some state direction in the National Products Marketing Act he was accused by Liberals of trying to regiment the farmers. Conservatives claimed he had to do some coercion if the growing and marketing of farm products was to reach the maximum of efficiency and called the Liberals a laissez-faire government for not going ahead with the compulsory features of the act.

Just how far the Conservatives will be prepared to go in state direction of the individual will be discussed at the convention and it will be argued that a laissez-faire production and marketing system cannot ultimately compete in world markets with countries where the state directs the system.

A high problem for the convention to decide will be the plan of dealing with the railway problem. Sir Humphrey Bolton of Surrey, England, physician to the late King George V, was presented with an honorary membership in the association.

The F. N. G. Star medal for extraordinary service in the field of medicine was presented to Dr. John S. McDermid of Calgary.

VIOLENT DEATH TAKES FOUR IN PRAIRIE AREA
WINNIPEG, June 23.—Two persons were killed and four injured as a result of traffic accidents, and two others were believed drowned.

Mrs. John Moore, aged 10, Winnipeg resident, injured in an automobile crash Sunday, died in hospital here from a fractured skull. The body will be sent to Los Angeles for burial.

Alex. Krasnowsky, 27, of Winnipeg, died from injuries suffered when the motor truck in which he was traveling crashed Sunday night near Woodside, 30 miles west of here.

Frederick Park, 38, and his 20-year-old sister, Mabel, both of Shell River, were believed drowned Sunday in the Winnipeg river near Lac Du Bonnet, 60 miles northeast of Winnipeg. A search party found their overturned canoe.

15 Years Sentence
EDMONTON, N.S., June 23.—Emma Ross, 24, of Stony Lake, N.S., was sentenced Wednesday by Mr. Justice John Daulton to 15 years' imprisonment after a jury convicted her of the murder of her husband in a charge of murder for the death of Warren Brown, 46-year-old storekeeper, last January.

EMPTY BOOZE KEG EXPLODES: MAN BURNED

PENNSVILLE, Mich., June 23.—A whisky keg retained a lot of "kick" because though it was empty, Edward Felker, 38, mill worker, pulled the bung and lit a match to inspect the keg, which had been lying for hours in the sunlight. The keg exploded, hurling Felker 10 feet. Felker's left ankle was broken and he was burned severely about the face, arms and chest.

Confidence In Promotions Is Said Lack
OTTAWA, June 23.—"Many civil servants have lost confidence in the promotion system," V. C. Phelan, president of the Civil Service Federation of Canada, told the House of Commons civil service committee Wednesday.

He suggested a rating board composed of three departmental members of equal rank should be appointed by the departmental minister to make periodic ratings and hear any complaints from employees.

Mr. Phelan also recommended that all promotions should be accompanied by an increase in salary.

ARTIST WILL PAINT ESKIMO IN OUTPOSTS

MIDLAND, Ont., June 23.—Frank Johnston, who conducts an art school at Beach Ridge near Midland, has been commissioned to paint scenes of Eskimo and Indian life in the Arctic circle.

Johnston, well known among Canadian artists, had been given the commission by Gilbert Latham, president of mining concerns in the Great Bear Lake district of the Northwest Territories, to preserve what Latham terms "the last outpost of aboriginal civilization."

"I will fly up north in December before the second freeze-up," Johnston said last night. "Eleven hundred miles into the Arctic circle, I will live all winter in an outpost with a missionary, studying Eskimo and Indian ways whose only acquaintance with civilization has been through the airplane."

HER FINGER JOINTS BEGAN TO SWELL

Thanks to Kruschen
Nearly twenty years ago, this woman was attacked by severe rheumatism. Now 65, she tells how Kruschen restored her to health and has kept her free from rheumatism all these years.

In 1918, an attack of "flu" left me with severe rheumatism, and I was in bed three months. When I got up I could only hobble around with difficulty and pain. My finger joints were beginning to swell, and I was very painful. I was told that nothing could be done for the swelling. A friend recommended me to try Kruschen Salt, which I did with very satisfactory results. Today, at 65, my fingers are perfectly straight. I am free from rheumatism, and can do all my own housework." Canada's War Contracts

Within the past few days, the John Inglis Company of Toronto has been awarded two separate war contracts, one for the manufacture of 7,000 Bren machine guns for the Canadian government, the other for the provision of 5,000 Bren guns for Great Britain.

The Winnipeg Free Press is gravely perturbed at the fact that these contracts may result in the creation of new munition millionaires, who will be rich at the expense of the public good. The alarm, while laudable, seems a trifle hasty. The federal government has made up its mind to let the department committee to look after all war orders, and thus far not even the opposition has been able to point the finger of effective criticism at it. If a minority were really allowed to profit from Canada's defence program, Mr. Bennett would have accused the cabinet of a gross breach of its duty long before this.

But the Winnipeg paper has more reason on its side when it turns to the danger implicit in the supply of arms for England by a Canadian firm, acting presumably with the consent of the Canadian government.

On several occasions, Hon. Ian MacKenzie, the energetic defence minister, has told parliament that Canada is absolutely free of any military engagements to Great Britain. The prime minister repeated this pledge in his statement on foreign policy to the House of Commons a few weeks ago. All the same, no less an authority than Winston Churchill charges that continued military co-operation between England and France prior to the war made isolated action by either country very hazardous if not actually untenable. Care will have to be exercised to see that, despite any business deals, the unfettered independence of the Canadian people in foreign affairs is strictly preserved.

That Canada will be used to supply military materials for England no longer can be open to conjecture. The London Times speaks with unique prestige on this issue and has already made its position crystal clear. "The Technical Air Mission to the United States and Canada has returned, and should soon be able to report the result of its inquiries. But enough is known already to warrant the view that manufacture in Canada could be organized on a large scale in a matter of months. Moreover, it seems certain that a program of production could be made flexible even more easily in Canada than in this country. Canadian production would supplement, not supplant, British production in a most welcome and valuable form of co-operation."

No sensible Canadian would wish to have Canada without any aid it might grant to Great Britain, and it is not a vast armament effort that should be made. It is a matter of the world's threatened peace. But the Canadian ministry must see to it that profiteering is banned, and that military aid from private firms in no sense carries any implications of political significance.

The Students Revolt

The three most famous universities in the United States—Harvard, Yale and Princeton—have all seen their graduation season marred by protests from their students against their boards of governors. That such advice about obeying the "wisdom of the ages" handed out so liberally by commencement day orators contrasts strangely with this trend by youth to regard the acts of elderly trustees as worthy only of open contempt, and even more open revolt.

Trouble first began, of all places, in the staid divinity school at Yale. Students actually acted up the graduation day exercises to show their scorn for the decree removing Dr. Jerome Davis from the staff of that school. The contagion swiftly spread to Harvard, where students kept up their now chronic habit of criticizing the expulsion of Professors Sweeney and Walsh.

For long Princeton, secure in its ivy-clad dignity, kept aloof from this turmoil. But when it fell, it did so with a vengeance. Its students picked a quarrel with Governor Moore of New Jersey, whom they called "an ill-famed political stooge" and unworthy of being given an honorary doctor of laws degree or anything else by their university.

Whether these revolts prove abortive or not, they will at least have the merit of telling all America that youth can think and act for itself. They may even effect a tonic change in the calibre and tone of graduation day speeches themselves, than which no greater boon for students can be conceived.

Anthony Eden—Premier?

New interest in the political future of Anthony Eden has been stirred up by the Yorkshire Post's thesis that the former foreign secretary must be deemed the heir presumptive to the British premiership. Added force is given to this speculation by the fact that this paper often has given the cue to Eden's next move. In fact, his family has a financial interest in the Post.

For some time now a new force has been emerging in English public life, acting as a thorn in the flesh of the Chamberlain dynasty. Dedicated to peace by collective agreement and opposed to haggling for squallid and temporary favours from dictators, the group commands the genius of Winston Churchill, the moral fervor of Lord Cecil, and the unrivalled prestige of Eden himself. The significant point is that this trinity of intellect stems from the Conservative party. Should their support continue to grow, Chamberlain may well find himself abandoned by his own followers. The finger of fate would then inevitably fall on Eden, as the bravest antagonist of the premier, to occupy No. 10 Downing street.

Such in rough outline is the case as argued by the Yorkshire Post in favor of Eden, presently at odds with fortune. However, there are several flaws in its reasoning which render untenable his early accession to the premiership. Eden has shown no consuming ambition to be Chamberlain's heir. The premier's policy is still on trial, and abandoning it now would be both premature and provocative. Lastly, and most important, any revolt by Conservatives against Chamberlain could hardly be expected to result in Eden as the two factions struggled in internecine fury for party supremacy. It would probably splinter the party in two.

For the time being at least, Anthony Eden, the plumed knight of British politics, will continue to plow his bleak furrow in the thin ranks of the lonely opposition.

At a special service in the Cannanoch church in Edinburgh, Scotland, the other Sunday, the Lord Provost, magistrates and councillors arrived in the full glory of their robes of office. Immediately after the civic dignitaries had been welcomed by the minister, the congregation sang: "How bright these glorious spirits shine, whence all their white array." Was this a "coincidence"?

The Vancouver Riots

Any attack on private property, whether deliberate or the result of mob violence, is in no sense condoned. It is to be condemned in the strongest terms.

But the real blame for this regrettable attack, which has been allowed to develop in Vancouver must be placed squarely on the institution of government in Canada.

Next, they must be given an opportunity to become self-supporting.

These unemployed men want work and they want pay—and surely they have a right to both. They have reiterated their demands in every way they know how. And when they organized under leaders it was with no subversive intent, but with the simple axiom before them that in numbers is strength.

But it is too late for argument now, it is time for action, by all the government force we have, and the primary responsibility is on Ottawa to defeat the way.

Private initiative in this country can go so far in employment. But when it has reached its limit and there is still a surplus, it is the business of our public men to see that the surplus is absorbed.

If ever government had a purpose beyond the preservation of law and order, that purpose is to see that its people are given the right to food and shelter and productive work. Almost every government on earth, including the despotic dictatorships of Russia and Germany, has first principle and acted on it.

Only Canada stands aloof—Vancouver Sun.

A Wise Judgment

County Judge Castello, sitting in Goderich the other day, gave a judgment which is said to be a precedent in Canadian law. If it does it is a very good precedent indeed.

The charge arose out of a double fatality on a highway near Clinton last summer. W. G. Shaw, a London man, was driving a car, the wheel and his car ran off the road and into a tree, killing two of his passengers. It transpired from the investigation that Shaw was subject to epilepsy, which rendered him incapable of controlling his machine. Judge Castello, on appeal, sent him to jail for a month for driving a car while himself to be subject to these recurrent attacks.

It is a pity that more attention is not paid to the physical condition of people operating motor vehicles on our highways. Those who apply for a license are required to attest on his application form that he is in possession of his complete faculties and if he is not, he is not to be allowed to drive. Conversion of Communists?

Communism in Canada has of late professed adherence to the democratic system and it seems the same with their brethren in the United States. Over there, on paper, they seem to be settling far away from actual communism as Hitler in Germany would want to be.

For instance, the Communist party of the United States, meeting in New York the other day, adopted a new constitution, the preamble of which binds its members to "defend the constitution of the United States" and to "carry forward the traditions of Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln." And the Communist party in the United States declared its program "can and must be harmonized with the framework of the capitalist society if democracy is to be safeguarded."

And when, considering the source, "comment" the New York World-Telegram and Sun, an avowed statement would be difficult to find. Unless American Communists have completely revised their program, and are now carrying on, with an entire abandonment of sublimity, their original intention, they are not to be taken seriously.

"Truly they have come to be all things to all people."

Are Communists on this continent becoming more moderate fellows or have they "something up their sleeve" in their rather sudden enthusiasm for democratic institutions and democratic methods? It is simply a disguised line of approach to original objectives?

It isn't as long since our Communists in Canada were kicking democracy and the parliamentary system all over the place—Regina Leader-Post.

Watering Down Victory

The Yellow river, the Huang-ho, has long been the most evil of all China's great rivers. So many and so dreadful have been the floods of which it was the cause that it has come to be known as "China's Sorrow," the "Unforgivable" and "Scourge of the Son of Man." But today the Chinese who are the victims of the Huang-ho's creeping waters and who are able to take a long-range and philosophic view of the country's strategic position, are beginning to see the Yellow river hard names. Instead they see it coming to their rescue; they say that "Heaven is saving the Middle Kingdom." The reason of course is that with the river surging one hundred miles beyond its normal banks and spreading flood waters over five hundred square miles, and providing the water sweep over a much greater area, the Japanese advance through northern Honan province is seriously impeded. Foreign observers already believe that chances for a fresh military advance along the Peking-Hankow line have been washed out, and that large quantities of the invaders' materials and mechanized equipment will be left in the flood waters or rendered useless.

Naturally it is supposed, or at least it is alleged, by Tokyo, that the Central Chinese Government has deliberately flooded the dikes and let loose the torrent against Nippon's armies. It would not be the first time that such tactics have been used in warfare. They have been employed from the time the Red Sea swallowed up the Egyptians to the day not so many months ago, when the Spanish Loyalists let loose their reservoir against advancing rebels. But, as a

Your Health

DR. FRANK MCCOY

One of the most delicious ways in which corn may be used is when it is not yet fully matured. It is then called green corn, or corn on the cob, and should be prepared by boiling, steaming or roasting.

I find that the best way to use corn on the cob is to make it the principal food at the meal, using it as though it were a starch, and combining it with a variety of vegetables with it. Used in this manner, it will provide an excellent main dish for the luncheon meal. I do not advise that you add a kind of acid food, such as lemon juice, as the corn contains enough starch so that this is an undesirable mixture.

The three or four small ears of the fresh corn, seasoned with butter, and add a liberal amount of spinach, asparagus, string beans, celery or lettuce, taking any of these vegetables desired which you will find you have a delicious and satisfying meal.

No matter how much you chew the corn, you will discover that it will have the same milky still in the undigested state, because the digestive juices have not been able to penetrate the cellular covering which surrounds the milky interior.

Many times corn may be used as a corrective for constipation when the constipated state is due chiefly to the over-use of concentrated foods, which supply little bulk of roughage. In such cases, the use of a generous amount of green corn will provide plenty of bulk, and it will fill up the large intestine sufficiently so as to encourage normal peristalsis. The green corn contains a large amount of acid, and it is this acid which is only partly digested in the intestines, but is of value because it supplies bulk which is filling but not irritating.

Those with mild cases of constipation due to faulty diet, might try using corn on the cob once a day during the summertime, to see if they obtain results. Combining the corn with vegetables and with salad vegetables such as celery, lettuce and cucumbers and use this as a main dish, and you will find that you will fill up the large intestine sufficiently so as to encourage normal peristalsis. The green corn contains a large amount of acid, and it is this acid which is only partly digested in the intestines, but is of value because it supplies bulk which is filling but not irritating.

One good point to keep in mind in selecting fresh corn is to try to get it as soon as possible after it comes from the field. Try to choose those ears having bright, fresh-looking husks and your cooked corn will then supply the most tempting flavor. If you raise corn yourself out in your own garden, then you are indeed fortunate, for the corn may be gathered and eaten as soon as it is ready.

Fresh corn is one of the most appetizing of all our summer foods and provides a wholesome amount of the vitamins of life. The starch content of this green corn seldom reaches a percentage greater than one-fifth of the total bulk. Fresh corn contains less than 20 per cent of starch, giving it a summer food which is very palatable without being very starchy. When correctly used, it may well be one of the real treats of the warm weather season.

QUESTION—D. R. wants to know: "Have you got a good recipe for making bottled grape juice at home?"

ANSWER—I do not have these particular directions at this time. I suggest that you send to Washington, D.C. to see if you may procure a Government pamphlet describing the correct procedure to use.

QUESTION—M. S. U. inquires: "Will you please give your advice? I have been bothered with gas for a year. Seems to be in the upper left part of the stomach, close in around my ribs. Has been severe pain at times. The gas is belched up, then no pain. Am also losing weight all the time, and have chills. Do you think this is due to indigestion?"

ANSWER—Your symptoms suggest a digestive disturbance, but I have no way of knowing what is causing it. You seem to have a very persistent case of the gas in the upper left part of the stomach, close in around my ribs. Has been severe pain at times. The gas is belched up, then no pain. Financial Aid Said Need Transient Jobless

REGISTRATION OF CANADIANS NEEDED

Social Service Administrator For Vancouver Address Conference

VANCOUVER, June 23.—Financial assistance of the federal government was essential to any solution of the transient unemployed and indigent problems. H. R. Ross, social services administrator for Vancouver, told delegates to the Canadian conference on social work here Wednesday.

He said there must be registration, not only of the unemployed and unemployed, but of the entire population of Canada in order that every person might be identified with the province or locality in which he was eligible for such social services as were available.

LOOK NEARER HOME
"We should also look nearer home to see whether our junior governmental bodies are not doing their part for the present position of drifters," he said, adding that many municipalities are unable to meet their relief problems, and that a "short cut" by assisting individuals and families to move elsewhere on the chance they might do better in a new location.

Mr. Ross urged federal recognition of the transient problem as not a passing phase but a permanent one to be met only by concerted action and through registration.

BE CO-OPERATION
There should be co-operation between provinces for enforcement of uniform domicile regulations, to remove as far as possible the inducement to move by granting basic welfare allowances and services.

These suggestions were endorsed by Dr. H. M. Cassidy, British Columbia's director of social welfare, who said that if the provinces were to assume responsibility for social services, every person applying for these services must be regarded as belonging to a particular province.

FIRE RAVAGES 23 HOMES OF EAST VILLAGE

Dynamite Blast Saves Remnant of Dwellings In Blaze

ST. LEE, Que., June 23.—Dynamite blasted a breach between buildings, saving last night what was left of this Maine county village after a $300,000 fire ravaged most of the homes and business places in the community.

Advances of the flames, blown by the wind, threatened the structures by a high wind, was halted when the explosive opened a gap between the three-story, brick buildings and the hand-built wooden building in the six-hour conflagration.

Only the village church, with its parsonage and a half dozen small houses, remained on the right side of the blast, which had leveled an old wooden building. Most of the 200 villagers were homeless.

Most of the villagers were at work in their fields when fire of undetermined origin broke out in the village of the west-storied parish hall.

An alarm brought all residents into the village for fire-fighting duty but their bucket brigades were unable to contain the fire, blowing the fire toward the other side of the village.

No lives were lost. Workmen of the village herded their children to the school, where the firemen could out of danger.

him and hear his statement of what happened in the conference with Mr. Chamberlain. The Confederation has accepted but the Amalgamated Engineers have rejected that their officials are too busy to attend to the alternative days suggested.

Obviously, the Engineers are playing a game of cat and mouse. A dictator, hostile to the union, has been chosen, and the Amalgamated Engineers are better than what they are doing.

There are signs that the executive of the Amalgamated Engineers are not to have all their own way. In 1937 the Amalgamated Engineers joined with 324 other unions in the Canadian Federation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions but, second last autumn, at the behest of their own leaders.

At the annual conference of this year, however, a resolution was brought in proposing a renewal of relations with the Confederation. This was strenuously opposed by the president and executive. In the debate bitter attacks were made on Sir Walter Chrysler who was described by one delegate as "a tool of the government"—presumably because it was under his leadership that the Amalgamated Engineers swung over in favor of armament two years ago.

The vote resulted in an overwhelming defeat for the executive. The motion was carried by 29 votes to 2, two delegates abstaining.

It may be said here that the government has gone as far as it can to reassure the matter of relaxing union rules and dilution of labor. Such a statement would be true. The Prime Minister made it clear that the powers taken during the war were not meant to be permanent. It is expected, after delays that the risk of growing disunity, the Amalgamated Engineers will come to terms. It was indicated at their conference, however, that a higher rate of pay per hour and a forty-four week would be the price demanded.

The union apparently has been called out absolutely in the making of the terms. The members of the union are to be asked to pay 25 cents each per week to raise a fund of $250,000 for the purpose of providing multi-purses for the Spanish war. The union is to be used to aid military operations but it is asserted that the law will not be contravened as multi-purses are not on the prohibited list of exports to Spain.

Rejection of the right of the Spanish Republic government to buy arms was demanded by negotiation.

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

A Two-Gun
Humorous
Serial

"Save that sangwidge," commanded a rasping voice and if people can jump a foot in the air from sitting positions, Kelly and Joe jumped it. As a matter of fact they jumped straight into the most exciting, hilarious adventure of their lives. But train your sights for it yourself. Watch for the new story, Holdup Honeymoon.

Bulletin Readers Come First!

GOOD READING ALL SUMMER

A real treat is in store for Bulletin readers this summer as the world's greatest writers bring stories expressly written to amuse and entertain you during the summer vacation season. Just look at this lineup:

- "HOLDUP HONEYMOON," by Edwin Rutt.
- "INTERNE TROUBLE," by Elinore C. Stone.
- "MYSTERY AT THE LAZY R," by Clarke Newlon.
- "HAYWIRE HOUSE," by Edwin Rutt.
- "PHOTO FINISH," by Charles B. Parmer.
- "HIT RUN LOVE," by Marguerite Gahagan.

You won't want to miss a single chapter, so be sure that the Bulletin is delivered to you daily throughout the vacation period.

Interne Trouble

Elinore
Cowan
Stone's

appealingly human story of a girl who found nurse's training involved lots of troubles — including internes in love!

Photo Finish

By
Charles B. Parmer

15 fast-stepping chapters of the track and of Blue Grass love by the leading racehorse-fiction writer of the country. A yarn to lend sure-fire dash to your vacation reading.

Mystery at the Lazy R

By Clarke Newlon

Nikki Jerome started for a quiet vacation in Wyoming, but the trip involved a $100,000 bag and murder on a dude ranch. Here's the kind of story you'll like for summer reading.

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

By Edwin Rutt

Joe Sandham's auto wreck was an extraordinary one, pitching him into the arms of a pretty redhead and a New England bank robber at the same time. Another hilarious farce that's streamlined for your summer reading. Watch for it.

Hit-Run LOVE

By Marguerite
Gahagan

Spotlighting the heart-ache-trail of the careless driver in a dramatic 15-chapter story of a girl who was forced to choose between Law and Love.

NEED BEER ROOMS PLAN WILL STAND

More Effective Control Is Expected Temperance Association Told

Decision of the Alberta liquor control board to permit drinking in Alberta beer parlors, under continued operation of floor men and when men in each parlor are properly escorted by women, existing since has been made and will stand until it is found that some better system of control can be found. Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, told the convention of the Associated Temperance Forces of Alberta at St. Albans Baptist church, Wednesday.

Mr. Low was an invited speaker at the convention and reported at the Wednesday afternoon session of the convention.

In his address to the convention from the government, Mr. Low declared that the only way the Associated Temperance Forces could advance their cause was by way of education of the people.

EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

He pointed out that the objectives of the association could not be attained unless the temperance movement to the government. He pointed out that the only way the objectives of the association could be served by carrying out an educational campaign. His function and that of the government was to administer the liquor control act, which was passed years ago, and the government of the day bears the responsibility of administering provisions which were enacted by the legislature, elected by the people of this province.

STRICT CONTROL

Turning his attention to the proposed order by which maximum drinking will be permitted under close supervision, which Mr. Low hopes will result in more effective control, he said that the government had informed persons operating beer parlors that it was incumbent upon them to make certain the new regulations were carried out to the letter and that they were made to work as intended. He said that they were found unsatisfactory, they would be recalled and revised.

"Held on June 23, 1938, at St. Albans Baptist church, Edmonton, Alberta. The convention was held at the invitation of the Edmonton Boys' Temperance Band.

Mr. Low pointed out that he did not come to the convention to debate but to participate in the discussion and that it would stand until some more effective means of control were obtained.

A. L. Marks agreed that the time was not opportune to discuss the point with Mr. Low.

There were approximately 75 delegates in attendance on Wednesday.

Rev. Harold Stubbins, minister of McDougal Baptist church, and president of the Associated Temperance Forces, attacked the decision to permit mixed drinking.

He charged that the government policy regarding liquor control was one of vacillation.

Mr. Stubbins contended that the Alberta government's policy was a negative one, that it was policy at all in regard to its administration of liquor in this province, he said.

He charged that the only people who had requested the new regulations regarding the beer parlors were the liquor merchants.

At the Wednesday afternoon session, Rev. Row K. Cameron, minister of First Presbyterian church, also spoke.

BANQUET HELD

The convention concluded on Wednesday evening with a banquet at the Hotel Macdonald. Rev. Douglas Miller, minister of the church, presided. Rev. H. D. Marx, Bible Society, Calgary, and Rev. George A. Macdonald, of Knox United church, Edmonton.

Music was provided by the Edmonton Boys' Temperance Band.

Announcement was made at Montreal, Thursday, that the Roy Thomson, Hudson in the University of Alberta, had been awarded one of the 11 prizes given annually by the Engineering Institute of Canada to the third year engineering student who has proved himself most deserving by his activities in the student engineering organization, has been awarded one of the organized engineering society.

Who's Who FOREST FIRE SITUATION IS MUCH EASIER

Fire-Fighters Make Head- way Against Flames At Slave Lake

Following three hectic days of fire-fighting, in which 100 men and 100 horses were employed to stem the advance of countless fires, the situation was eased on Thursday when in the Slave Lake area, here which were broken through on Monday were regained by the fire-fighters and the blazes brought back under control.

Efforts on the part of the fire-fighters were required to stem the advance of the flames and new fires were started through the timber areas which the flames were unable to leap.

The fire-fighters are continuing their efforts in this district.

In the St. Albans area, Inspector Smith has found that all fires are being fought and while they have not been brought under control he expects they will be sometime on Thursday.

No new outbreaks have been reported since Wednesday morning. The situation at Peace River district is still "bad". There has been no rain since Saturday.

Notwithstanding that clouds hung over the area on Thursday and Friday, the fighting operations were continued.

Observers stated that the fire was blowing in a westerly direction, which usually is a sign of rain. The fire-fighters are continuing their efforts in this district.

Other parts of the northern part of the province report cloudy weather with probabilities of rain and the rain-gauges report that their charges with the fire are better on cloudy than on clear days.

A. J. Hutchison, assistant director of provincial forestry, is still grounded at Peace River and is directing the fighting operations from there, making personal trips to various fires and insuring a supply of men and equipment.

It is likely that he will be able to leave there during Thursday or Friday.

LIGHT SHOWERS

From Forest it is reported that the fire-fighters are still working hard to keep the flames from spreading. It is stated, however, that the fire-fighters are still fighting the flames and that they are still fighting the flames.

"Not only do the fires continue to burn along the beds of dead rivers but they take hold of and destroy the living forest."

It is stated that the fire-fighters are still fighting the flames and that they are still fighting the flames.

SMOKE IS DENSE

"Vast portions of the country north of the fire-fighting area are still covered with dense smoke. The smoke from all the fires is rising and is being carried over the country by the wind. It is a very dense smoke and it is very dangerous to the health of the people living in the area."

It is stated that the fire-fighters are still fighting the flames and that they are still fighting the flames.

Residents are hopeful of early rain heavy rains in order to bring the fire-fighters back to the fire-fighting area.

REDUCING TAX CLUB HOUSES POINT TABLED

City Warned Properties May Revert Unless Cuts Made

Properly owned by cutting and badminton clubs in Edmonton may fall into the hands of the city unless these organizations reverse some essential tax location, the city finance committee was warned Wednesday.

In considering the rate of taxation imposed on amateur sports clubs, the committee was informed that the question was tabled for discussion at the committee's next meeting, commissioners being requested to prepare a further report for submission to the city council.

It was pointed out that the rate of taxation imposed on amateur sports clubs is one of the highest in the city.

Montreal Six Refused Right Stop Operating

NEW YORK, June 23.—Montreal Maroons have been refused permission by the National Hockey League to suspend operations for one year.

Although there was no official confirmation, it was learned Maroon representatives suggested the suspension of club owners Tuesday as a means to possibly avert the club's financial difficulties.

Cellar dwellers of the international section, the Maroons failed to draw paying crowds in Montreal during the last two seasons and has been rumored the franchise will be moved to either St. Louis or Cleveland.

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—St. Louis Cardinals manager Branch Rickey said he would not consider the Maroons as a member of the National League.

Bay Meets His Equal Kusek at Empire This Week

MR. BAIRAM BEY, that tough Turk who is so much hair in the wrestling fan's "zup," must be feeling every bit as bad as a doomed man ripe to take that early morning walk to the noose.

The possible reason for so many butterflies flitting around the Turk's stomach muscles may be the fact that this Friday night at the Empire Theatre, Bay meets his equal in Kusek.

It's a natural, this bout between Bay and Kusek. It has everything the fan wants in it. It is evenly matched, both are, and sometimes, are extremely rough and tough.

Supporting the card will be Bob "Barbed Wire" Baret, the Barbed Wire Bomber. Remember, the fellow who broke the back of the audience, puffed off his coat and took a haymaker at Bay knocking the latter into the orchestra pit.

That gentleman proved himself exceedingly potent with his fists. To have him in his corner would give Kusek a distinct advantage and would insure a fight that would be a thinking within that bald Turkish scalp.

A preliminary battle will start the matches off at 9 p.m.

Toronto Colt Favored Take Manitoba Derby

WINNIPEG, June 23.—H. C. Harty's Suffern became the logical choice for the July 1 Manitoba Derby Wednesday when it ousted a select field in seven furlongs to capture the Free Press handicap at Polo Park.

Hi-Gundy of Neil McQueen's Vancouver Stable was a popular selection prior to Wednesday's test but he was well beaten by the three-year-old Toronto colt.

Hi-Gundy showed his best form in a driving finish, regarded as encouraging as the longer class is at a mile and a quarter.

BROKE FAST
Suffern, with Calgary's Willie Marsh up, broke strongly and was never headed. He answered Hi-Gundy's stretch challenge, and finished a length ahead in 1:28.

Pats Chalk Up Fourth Victory Ladies' Softball

PLAYING under a sky that threatened to send sheets of rain pelted down at any moment, Army and Navy Pats ran their string of victories in the ladies' softball loop to four, straight, when they downed Red and Whites 9-5 at the North Edmonton diamond last night.

Down 9-5 as they came to bat in the last half of the ninth inning, Red and Whites smashed out four hits and sent three runs across the plate in a thrilling rally that just missed clicking for the North Edmonton ladies' first win of the season.
